1. In the summer of 1951 heavy artillery gunfire from the coast to the south of Gdynia was heard. Through binoculars a barge was observed towed by a tug. It was considered to be the target for the coastal guns.. (See attached sketch)
2. In February 1953, some large tankers of 5,000 tons each were observed lying alongside the oil tanks at Oksywie (see sketch) and giving out oil. Large underground oil tanks are alleged to be there, built by the Germans. Near the quay, there are either one or two tanks, a pumping station, administration buildings, and other installations.
